Matt Johnson Lecture

To be perfectly honest I had not heard of Matt Johnson before attending his lecture for the North Wales Magic Circle in October 2009 and therefore didn't know what to expect. Let me tell you that I was pleasantly surprised!

Matt had me laughing and engaged from the start. He was very entertaining and was a joy to watch. Matt had some interesting ideas for making effects that you may already perform, practical for other situations. One such example was McDonald's Aces, which using his idea you could perform in walk-around situations and would easily reset. Matt's effects were very commercial and along with his tips and ideas would be a welcome addition to many acts.

It is obvious that Matthew is a professional and he has clearly spent many years developing his routines, effects and ideas. You only have to look at the reviews from some of the 'big' names in magic of his recent release 'ALONE' to see what I'm talking about.

I cannot recommend this lecture highly enough to other magical societies that are seeking innovative, entertaining and practical magic.
